Cherry trees ... ripe for removal

Paparoa's cherry trees were planted by Keep Paparoa Beautiful in an attempt to provide a distinctive attraction and beautify the village.

The trees provide a spectacular display, attracting tuis and other nectar loving birds, for a couple of weeks every spring. New information has emerged that these trees are invasive and will threaten our natural environment.

Seedlings are popping up in gardens across the road from the Village Green, and it is only a short distance to the covenanted bush. Although grafted, the root stock is very vigorous and is shooting madly.

Sarah Brill, Biosecurity Officer, NRC has said, "I have seen the flowering cherry trees (Prunus campanulata) in Paparoa Village. I do feel that early action would avoid the problems that other areas, such as Kerikeri, have had with sheer numbers of this pest tree. As far as we know there are no varieties of Prunus campanulata that do not seed. This species and all varieties of it are banned from sale, propagation and distribution in Northland."

When trees, that have been part of the landscape for some time and appreciated by many, come under threat, it is inevitable that people will be divided over their fate. However much we have become accustomed to these particular trees they are now a pest. Removal will leave a gap that can be filled relatively quickly by another acceptable species. Advice will need to be taken on suitable trees preferably with attractive foliage and a long flowering season. PPI will provide the necessary funds for their replacement.

A&P Show supports Rural Fire Force

As the annual Paparoa A&P Show rolled around again earlier this year, it brought with it a host of new attractions. More stall holders, more family entertainment, more food and, of course ... gate prizes!

Lucky entrants made their way to the show office clutching prize winning gate tickets, possibly wondering just which of the 200 gate prizes they would receive. Would it be a bag of kumara? A box of chocolates? Luxury sunglasses? Or would it be the star prize ... a brand new Onga water pump?

The lucky winners of the top prize - Steve & Kathy Dawes - turned out to be a couple of lovely British tourists. Passing through Paparoa they had stopped to see what all the fuss was about. As travellers - with no immediate need for a brand new water pump, they generously gifted the pump back to the North Kaipara Agricultural Association for donation to charity.

This act of generosity, of course, necessitated a meeting ... and the generous committee members of our North Kaipara Agricultural Association unanimously decided to donate the pump to the Paparoa Volunteer Rural Fire Force, to help with their work in assisting our community.

The Fire Force would like to give a huge

All hands to the pump! A&P Show's Gerard Sullivan & Ross Battensby present the Onga pump to Fire Chief Noel Futter and truly heartfelt thank you to every person and business that made this donation possible - Michael & Sue Meyer from McQuinn Pumps in Whangarei for their initial donation of the pump; Steve & Kathy Dawes for their generosity; and of course, the fantastic people from the North Kaipara Agricultural Association.

The Fire Force is yet to decide how best to use the proceeds from the sale of the pump. A decision will be reached over the next few weeks and they'll let us all know their decision.

Koi Carp - a plan of attack

In October 2013 the Press front page showed photos of this large golden fish with distinctive 'barbels' (whisker-like feelers) and alerted our community to the dangers of this banned exotic freshwater pest fish entering our streams and rivers.

One Paparoa farm was found to have two ponds containing big numbers; one pond was drained completely that summer and cleaned out; the second pond, because it is the farm's major water supply, has yet to be drained.

DOC's Kauri Coast Dargaville office is now responsible for the eradication of fish pests in our area and when possible, this pond will be drained while a temporary water supply is set up. There is also a large pond across the Paparoa Stream and in flood conditions it could also tip fish into the waterways!

The big new sign along SH12 between Paparoa and Maungaturoto is a reminder for us to remain vigilant and report any sightings to the Regional Council, 0800 002 004.

These fish are almost impossible to control once in a free-flowing river and are classed as Australasia's worst pest fish. They have become a plague in the Waikato and must be kept from infiltrating our environment.

Please keep watch on farms and along our fresh-to-slightly saline waterways for any suspicious gold fish, koi carp or 'coarse fish' - all inedible by the way!

ANZACS Paparooa Roll of Honour

Amazingly, a father and son are each recorded in one of Paparooa War Memorial Hall's two Rolls of Honour:

On the 1914-1919 Roll is Sergeant Major Cedric James Jenkins, son of Cedric Herbert Jenkins who had come from England and was well-known in Paparooa. He built a house in Franklin Road which is being lived in to this day. Cedric married Lilian Rowsell from Whakapirau.

Cedric James Jenkins' war service was with the Auckland Mounted Rifles Regiment which served in Gallipoli and the Middle East Campaign. He returned from the War in 1915, wounded. Later, he worked for Mr Ariell, then the Railways Department at Mareretu Station, and then at Onerahi and Morningside, Whangarei.

On the 1939-1945 Roll is Sergeant Herbert James Jenkins known as Bert, son of Cedric and Lilian. Although an only son, Bert's parents expected him to also go to fight for king and country.

ANZAC SERVICES

Matakoho: 10.30am from War Memorial Hall

Maungaturoto: 6am from Centennial Hall

Ruawai: 10.30am from Ruawai Tokatoka War Memorial Hall

At the going down of the sun and in the morning, we will remember them

Born in 1921 in Paparooa, Bert attended school at Mareretu until 1933; and then attended Whangarei Boys High School, taking jobs in various grocers' shops until 1939 when war was declared.

Local identity - ANZAC Bert Jenkins

He joined the 11th North Auckland Mounted Rifles (NAMR). This regiment no longer used horses – Bert says 'Shanks' pony' was all they had and leather on the soles". It was a time of turmoil; any appropriate truck was commandeered from around the north and with the volunteers aboard, a large convoy of colourful assorted trucks left for Waiouru. Bert said it was a wonderful spectacle!

Following serious training in Waiouru and at Waimate North, the first big shift was to Awanui as part of the 15th North Auckland Infantry Battalion, taking equipment and tanks to defend the north of New Zealand.

When needed overseas they joined the Expeditionary Force, shipped to Egypt then to Italy and became part of the 2nd NZ Divisional Cavalry.

In early 1944 Bert was part of the campaign to take Cassino, but not long after, at Rimini, was wounded in his leg and spent the remainder of the war in a German hospital. He says he ate lots of swedes! Eventually he returned to New Zealand on various troop ships, arriving in Wellington on a beautiful day, glad that the 'big adventure' was at an end. He took the train ride north to Whangarei and was demobbed in the Drill Hall – a large corrugated iron building on Walton Street.

Now in his 94th year, Bert drives down for the Paparooa Pioneer Luncheon and has many stories to tell.

Our best wishes to you Bert; the story of your life would be a great read! PP

Paparoa Lions 68th Pioneer Luncheon

It was another happy occasion in Paparoa when the 100 guests and Lions helpers met for this annual Luncheon. Many of the guests have been coming for many years, some local and some from afar to catch up with friends, relatives and old neighbours all with the common factor of living or having lived in the Paparoa district.

Elva Heath at the Pioneer Luncheon

This year guests were treated to wonderful entertainment from sisters Joan Brown and Linda Litt expertly playing the piano accordion and drum.

The sisters spoke of their parents Ben & Doreen Emmett who formed an accordion band which played in the area at many dances and charity concerts as well as teaching music to Paparoa and Matakohe youngsters in the 1950s and 60s.

After a delicious lunch catered by Otamatea Christian School support group, Graham Taylor presented information about a proposed lifestyle village which was of great interest to some.

MC for the day Ken Chambers noted that the Lions were once again pleased to honour the more senior members of our community and those who have left the district. All have done so much to make the area a great place to live.

Lifestyle Village project presented to Pioneer Luncheon guests

An audience of more than 100 over 65 year olds at the recent Lions Pioneer Lunch was the ideal audience to hear about the proposed Lifestyle Village for Paparoa.

Chair of the Steering Group, Graham Taylor outlined the proposal saying it was the boldest plan for Paparoa's future for many years. He indicated there could be up to 12 dwellings initially with room to expand in the future.

Located adjacent to Paparoa Village on the western side of Franklin Road there would be easy access for vehicular and pedestrian traffic. The emphasis of the project is to retain active seniors in the district and it is envisaged that many residents would be able to actively pursue a full life without the responsibility of a large home or grounds to maintain. Some would possibly still be working but able to enjoy the security and ambience of a village community.

"That's why we are calling it a Lifestyle Village", said Graham. "While the 'village' would be owned by a community trust there will also be a number of individual lots for separate sale. This will enhance the development of the residential area in Paparoa."

He acknowledged that many of the audience had already made arrangements for their senior years but a pleasing number indicated they were interested in hearing more as the project developed.

A community mailout had yielded even more positive responses. Graham can be contacted for further details on 431 7209.

Also snapped at the luncheon: Neil and Rae Tonks

Rally drivers vote Arcadia Rd best

As residents around and on Arcadia Road will know, the first Sunday in March saw the Hibiscus Coast Motorsport Club hold their annual rallysprint. And this year the dust was thick!

As a fundraiser, Paparooa Lions hosted the Motorsport Club, providing lunch and dinner at Paparooa Hall, plus sending out 20 lunches for the marshals on the route.

The A&P show committee also receive payment for use of the land behind the Hall for carparking etc.

We asked how the Car Club people enjoyed the day and received this letter from the event organiser:

"From the club's perspective we really appreciate the cooperation of the Paparooa community in letting us use your fantastic roads and to Jim Rowlands and the rest of the Paparooa Lions for their support and assistance. This year's event had 30 entries from as far afield as Tauranga and included some of New Zealand's leading rally drivers, including Andrew Hawkwood from Whitford.

The day ran smoothly and most competitors had an enjoyable day, with only a few mechanical failures spoiling the day for some. At the post-event prizegiving dinner everybody was raving about what a great road Arcadia Rd was to drive and they are already looking forward to next year's event."

Paparooa Playcentre

We've been having fun with lots of messy play - paint splatting pictures and heaps more fun things. Last week we had a workshop where we explored ways to play in water and encourage different learning with our children. We're planning for Term 2 and welcome your ideas. If there are any events we could be involved with or areas for fundraising we'd love to hear from you.

We've applied for grants for shade sails to protect our babies from the strong sun and are awaiting the outcome. We'd also like to host a First Aid course and are interested to hear from anyone keen to attend this.

Gangsters and their Molls hit town

Theatre goers had great fun in the Paparoa Hall at ORT's The Altos in March. The show was hilarious and involved interaction with the diners. The food was fabulous (by Julie Lewis) and the table of eight, Shane Wintle and seven beautiful and beautifully dressed Molls, were a real feature!

ORT's Maura and Peter Flower were very pleased with the number and quality of the audience! Everyone had loads of fun. Hope ORT will return next year with another Dinner Show and you can join us!

White Rock Gallery

We're delighted to provide an update from White Rock Gallery.

Firstly, a HUGE thank you for all the local support the gallery has received since our opening at the beginning of February. Visitor numbers for February were just shy of 600 and a large portion of those were locals bringing friends through, or out of town and overseas visitors who had been directed to the gallery by local people. So thank you very much!

We think it's important to keep the gallery fresh and interesting for local and out of town visitors alike. With that in mind we add a small number of new pieces most weeks and we do a complete refresh of the art and craftworks on a six-weekly basis. We've just completed our first six weekly refresh and there are lots of new and exciting works on display so it's definitely worth a visit next time you're in our neck of the woods!

DAIRY DIARY
... the farming scene

This is a magic time of the year where the heat of the summer is past its peak, the cows are on once a day (or should be), and the writing is on the wall as to what our final production and 'pay out' will be. It is the time of year where the focus shifts from internal function to assessing where we achieved well, and could improve next season.

In our situation where we manage one property and lease the adjoining one, we have the luxury of comparison and have found that once a day milking all season suits us well for a variety of reasons.

- Cow health and condition have been easier to maintain especially pre-mating and during feed pinches, resulting in less expenditure on supplementary feed.

- Rate of empty cows was drastically different 6% vs. 28%.

- Strong, easy to identify heats. We will still use KMAR heat detection aids as we have good success with these.

- Having the afternoon free to work (or not) has greatly improved our productivity and lifestyle and has enabled us to develop land to be more efficient next year.

Forming a company and running it has been difficult and in a year like this where the payout is $4.70 and we will not quite make target production, I liken it to being thrown out of a plane with a sheet and a ball of string and having to make a parachute on the way down. We will have to really watch our spending over the next twelve months and be smart and motivated in order to achieve our production goals.

There are plenty of positives to focus on with a great network of friends, family and staff supporting us and even though my wife is feeding two she still somehow managed to conceive number four.

We can't put that down to once a day.

Civil Defence update for Paparoa

Paparoa's Community Response Group has met with Sharon Bain, new KDC Civil Defence Emergency Management Officer.

The purpose of the meeting was to:

1. Meet the new Emergency Management Officer.
2. Review the Paparoa Community Response Plan.
3. Identify people for training in 2015.
4. Carry out a table top exercise.
5. Identify any areas of concern.

Most members of Paparoa's Response Group attended, together with some Fire Force people and some local business owners.

Sharon was quick to praise the Paparoa plan as being one of the best in the district. The table top exercise went well and included plenty of laughs. It seems Paparoa is in safe hands.

To find out more about Civil Defence in Paparoa, please call the community response group co-ordinator – Yvonne Yorke 09 431 6668, or 021 158 2930.

The updated 24page Community Response Plan is available at: www.nrc.govt.nz/civildefence.

A hard copy of the Plan is held at Skelton's Drapery and at Paparoa Library and makes interesting reading, as does Paparoa Press August 2014 Civil Defence article available at www.paparoa.org.nz, or at the Library. PP

Moving to Paradise, pt 2 [continued from last month]

Paparooa newcomer Jacqueline Knight gives us an overview of her family's experience settling in:

After initial research on the site and then preparing a landscape plan, work on the property itself began ...

First up we put in a driveway and built a shed, which meant we could stay up in Paparooa longer and work even harder!

Next we fenced off the bush, formed three paddock areas and got some sheep to keep the grass down (and fill the freezer). While my husband learned how to manage sheep and do home kill, I planned the house. With the maximum and usual amount of pain, financial strain and general mayhem, we built some of the house in order to stay on the property and, yes, work through winter too!

The nursery went in next and I collected seed and grew the appropriate plants for winter planting to begin. Horizontal hail and rain featured often on our windy winter site, but plant the slopes to stabilise them we did. One of the toughest tasks involved my fancy for a skink garden on our sunny super dry north facing slope, all 800sqm of low close planting. As the slope is sharp, we were quite often digging sideways into the clay and sliding down the hill in horizontal rain. My children may never forgive me for this!

Meanwhile, with my studies completed, I started a job as restoration manager at Kaipatiki Environmental Centre in Auckland and started up a nursery there as well as doing restoration plans for parks & reserves in the North Shore.

The job grew and grew with contracts for Council and other property development companies; all very tiring, as we were doing a full week's work followed by a full weekend of planting and keeping on top of the maintenance, kind of!

After five years my heart (and body) yearned to escape the busy-ness. Finally, last year, the stars aligned. My sons announced they were going flatting, my husband was in a position to work from Paparooa with some travelling and, bingo, I got a job working for Northland Regional Council as Enviro-schools Facilitator for Northland secondary schools along with some landscape design work. We took a deep breath, sold the Auckland house, and made Paparooa our full time home. Now we work all the time!

In went the vege gardens, the olives, and the citrus, and we're on top of the maintenance now. At this rate, we may even one day finish the house.

Meanwhile every day we wake up to the birds and every evening the sunset gives a great evening show. Our birdlife has grown and the rare Kaipara kakabeak in flower in the spring is a wonderful sight. The abundant skinks love their new home. We have fresh vegetables and fruit from the gardens and orchards. We are surrounded by beautiful views and the kindness of the people of Paparooa and we are the happier, healthier and calmer for it. It feels just right.

Outstanding success and special praise from principal

Principal of Otamatea High School, Rachel Clothier-Simmonds, has announced that the School's NCEA results for 2014 were especially pleasing, and congratulated all students who received NCEA Levels 1, 2 and 3.

Each year NZQA also recognises high achieving students by awarding various Endorsements either 'Overall' or for an individual 'Subject or Course' – it is a considerable honour to be awarded such an endorsement.

Special congratulations were given to all the students who received NCEA Levels Endorsed with Excellence or Merit; five of these students who had schooling at Paparoa School were:

NCEA Level 2: Overall: Thomas Macdonald, Courtney Mottram

NCEA Level 1: Rita Hames

For an individual subject or course Level 2:

- Nicole Hinsch (English, History);
- Courtney Mottram (Biology, Chemistry, Geography, Statistics);

Level 1 – Miriana Littlejohn (Art),
Rita Hames (English, Science)

Well done!

Among the 2015 STUDENT LEADERS:
Manukura Tane, Te Whakakotahitanga

Matakohe Cemetery Trust

Just bringing everyone up to date with new deployments at the Matakohe cemetery.

In the first place the Matakohe cemetery is described as a "private" cemetery. This is because the Trust does not receive funding from a governing body, i.e. Kaipara District Council. All of our funding is derived from the sale of plots, the interment of ashes on graves, and the sale of plots for ashes.

Special arrangements for Returned Services personnel - to take effect on ANZAC Day 2015

Secondly, and my main reason for contacting you now is to let you know of a major development which is taking place on ANZAC Day this year (2015).

The Paparoa Returned Services Association (RSA) approached the Matakohe Cemetery Trust with a request that perhaps a section of the cemetery could be set aside for those people who served in major conflicts around the world, or who were members of the armed services.

Following a meeting with representatives of the RSA, the Trust agreed that a part of the cemetery could be set aside to mark the time people gave to uphold the way of life and ideals embraced by citizens of New Zealand.

Returned Service people who meet the above criteria will be able to have their ashes interred in this site. I would like to recognise the generous support of the following businesses that assisted with this development: Atlas Concrete, Carters Maungaturoto, Marek Weber, and Weber Builders.

The Returned Services section will be dedicated and opened on ANZAC Day the 25 April 2015.

School update from Term 1

We had a whole school visit to The Kauri Museum and were very interested to learn what it was like for children at school 100 years ago. It was fascinating to see the creatures fossilised in kauri gum and the wonderful creations people had made using the gum.

Our Duffy Role Model this term was Miriyana Alexander, editor of The Herald on Sunday. She talked to us about her job and how much she had enjoyed reading and writing when she was little. She read us one of her favourite picture books – How to Catch a Star by Oliver Jeffers. Each of the children received 2 books from Duffy Books in Homes, which is always super exciting.

The end of term was tinged with a little sadness as we farewelled principal Kim Tavinor and admin officer Vickie Owens. We wish them all the very best for their next challenges.

We hope you enjoy the holidays and look forward to Term 2 on Monday, April 20th.

Gardening - the biological way

The long dry hasn't helped this month – though there's been a few heavy showers. On the bright side, the plague of green stink beetles has gone, late tomatoes are still going strong, and monarch butterfly caterpillars are now surviving!

I've been lucky recently to take students to learn about biological farming where it's all about looking after the soil rather than just fertilising the crop. An incredible number of tiny soil organisms provide food for the plant while the plant gives them sugar made by photosynthesis, kind of 'you scratch my back I'll scratch yours' system. They do all this for free as long as we don't kill them off with nasty chemicals.

We need to keep the right balance of elements in the soil – calcium, magnesium, potassium, phosphorus, nitrogen, boron etc - by using products that are gentle - not too acidic or strong – which provide the nutrients the soil needs. It's all about getting the balance right. Just as humans and animals need a balanced diet, so does the soil – too much nitrogen for the soil is just as bad as too much sugar is for us. If not used, the nitrogen just washes away into our waterways and harbours. Seaweed, compost and compost teas are all good as long as we have water; and other products are also available.

This is a change of emphasis from the short term gain- food for grass or crop immediately - to sustainability and good crops/grass over a longer period with good soil life.

Our students will be trialling an area just next to the Maungaturoto Country Club using information from a Perry Soil test. BUT we have to wait until we have some decent rain on the soil first. It will be interesting to see what happens!

Spotlight on ...

The bloke departs the boat - Mick Reynolds

In 2000, the book Blokes and Boats was published, featuring a plethora of NZ blokes with their boats big and small. Featured among the lineup was Paparoa's own Mick Reynolds on an amazing yacht named Tern II. For 13 years Mick, originally from Wales, has called Paparoa home.

Mick's adventures began when he was a plucky 15-yr-old, apprenticed to the RAF in 1959. Ten years later he joined the RNZAF and, following family, moved to New Zealand.

He spent a further 13 years in uniform, and then 12 more as a civilian.

Always an adventurer, from waterskiing jaunts in Cyprus in the 60s, to scuba diving in the South China Sea in the 70s, Mick left the RNZAF and went to work for private oil exploration dive companies, flying ROV (remotely operated vehicles) in Japan, Brunei, Malaysia and Thailand.

Whilst 'offshore' he would "pace the helipad at dusk and dawn, looking from horizon to horizon", and ultimately decided to become a sea gypsy.

He placed an ad in the local rag looking for a catamaran to sail around the Pacific, and ended up proud owner of Tern II, a yacht built in 1889 by Claude Worth which had been left mouldering for far too long in the Thames river mud on the Coromandel.

Mick spent 12 years restoring the boat, planning to sail it back to England, but couldn't get it deemed seaworthy for a journey of that length.

His money ran out, and the yacht was on sold to an American woman, who planned to sail it from NZ to Hawaii.

From then Tern II was left marooned in Tonga for years – until she was found recently and shipped to NZ, with plans to again restore her.

Mick has owned a few other boats on the Kaipara, but none as solid and beautiful as Tern II.

Nowadays he is more into motorbikes than boats, he also helps out as a friend of the White Rock Gallery. Mick has three grown-up children, and three little grandchildren.

Eggs-ceptional project kicks off

The Reconnecting Northland programme begins its Inanga Project in Paparoa-Maungaturoto in April. This will involve searching areas of riverbank for clues that inanga (whitebait) are laying their eggs. The searches will be carried out on Paparoa Stream and Pahi River. The recipe for the project is a simple one. More eggs hatched equals more whitebait in our waterways."

Investigations began in late March from which maps will be produced showing likely spawning zones.

Then the fun begins with egg searches in these zones at spawning time during new moon high tides in late April.

Kim Jones of Whitebait Connection was involved in identifying the first confirmed Northland spawning site at Parua Bay and will lead the work. To get involved in April egg searches email jon.hampson@landcare.org.nz

HEY, KIDS . . . JUST FOR YOU . . .

It's hard to believe that Term 1 is over. We'll be celebrating Easter at the start of the holidays and thought you might like to have a go at baking your own Hot Cross buns. For the past two years, an enterprising group of senior students at Paparooa Primary School have made hot cross buns with Mrs Cant, as a fundraising activity. Mrs Cant has kindly agreed to share her delicious recipe with us – and has even added how to make chocolate buns too. Yummy!

EASTER HOT CROSS BUNS

INGREDIENTS:

1 cup hot water
1 cup cold milk
1/4 cup sugar
1 tblsp active yeast
550gms High Grade flour

1 tblsp cinnamon
1 tblsp mixed spice
1/4 cup oil or butter
1 tsp salt
Another 1/4 cup sugar
100 gms sultanas

CROSSES:

75gm plain flour
5 tbsp water

GLAZE:

Apricot jam

METHOD: Combine milk, water, yeast and the first measure of sugar in a bowl and wait for the yeast to froth (approx 5-10 mins). Add flour, spices, oil, salt and second measure of sugar, mix until a dough forms, add sultanas and mix again. Turn out onto a floured bench and knead for 10 mins until smooth. Place into oiled bowl, cover with tea towel, and leave in a warm place until dough doubles in size. Punch down the dough and divide into 12 even pieces. Roll each piece into a ball and place them onto a baking tray. Cover with a tea towel and leave until doubled in size. Pipe crosses onto the top of your buns. Bake in a 200 degree oven for approx 20mins or until golden and cooked. Glaze if desired and enjoy.

Cross mixture: Mix 75g flour with 5 tbsp water to make paste for the cross – add water 1 tbsp at a time- just enough for a thick paste. Spoon into a piping bag with a small nozzle. Pipe a line along each row of buns, then repeat in the other direction to create crosses.

Glaze: Gently heat the apricot jam to melt, then sieve to get rid of any chunks. While the jam is still warm brush over the top of the warm buns and leave to cool.

NOTE: For Chocolate Hot Cross Buns omit the spices and sultanas and add 1/4 cup of cocoa and 100gms chocolate chips. Also, instead of piping buns with the flour crosses before baking, wait 'til they've cooled and pipe white chocolate crosses on them instead.

Cam wishes to thank all his customers for their ongoing support over the past 9 years, and welcomes them to continue to use his services at the address above. Thanks Cam for such great service and for keeping us all on the road, you'll be sorely missed!

Paparoa Hall Committee advise that with the generous help of Transfield Services and Kaipara District Council, plus some of its own funds, sealing of part of the carpark will happen during April. The deterioration in the seal has now reached a deplorable condition. For a few days following the work, access to the Hall will be via the ramp and the front doors – we are excited by the prospect of this upgrade, following which we will try for funding to complete improvements to the entire carpark area.

Relay for Life: The Mangawhai Cadets participated in the Walk for Life relay on 14 & 15 March. Collectively the unit walked 852km with 3 cadets, including local David Hames, walking over 100kms each. Jenny Battensby who was part of the Matakohē team tells us their team raised the most money for this cause. A mighty effort all round!

Few take advantage of Council meeting:

Only a smattering of locals turned out at the invitation of KDC to discuss local matters on 8 March. Perhaps this means everyone is happy with the service council provides? Those who made the effort had the opportunity to discuss with council officers and commissioners issues of concern. Council is required by law to provide these opportunities for interaction. It's a pity more people don't take advantage as those who did felt they were able to get many points across. If we don't speak up we can't complain later! PP

Matakohē Music Makers

Freedom Camping around NZ

Travelling with a caravan or motorhome feels a bit like being a tortoise who takes his 'home' along wherever he goes. The advantages of being able to stop wherever you wish, to do your own home-cooked food and drink, to rest or take photos, and sleep in the same bed every night far outweighs any disadvantages.

This is all made easier still by joining the NZ Motorhome & Caravan Assn (NZMCA) for the cost of an annual subscription. Members must have self-contained facilities and are provided with a travellers' 'bible' listing all budget camping options (some even free). There's great variety available, from roadside rest areas, to clubs, racecourses, sports-grounds and Regional Parks - many in prime positions with wonderful views and often uncrowded. Then there are the Park Over Properties (POPs) which are usually owned by people like us who have homes on wheels. At all of the above options facilities are provided and different restrictions apply, eg: length of stay and whether or not dogs are permitted. The NZMCA-owned areas normally supply a dump point for waste and fresh water, sometimes toilets and other facilities. Some of our favourite camping spots are the DOC camps, also listed in the 'bible'. These usually provide us with walks and lovely natural surroundings. One of our favourites was in the Abel Tasman National Park, a large and popular facility right on the beach which was great for swimming, kayaking, walking, photography etc.

The social interactions along the way are a bonus, meeting others from not only NZ but far off lands, all with a common goal - to see our beautiful country and to enjoy life and good health. It always amazes us the connections discovered between people and how friendships are sometimes forged for the future.

PAPAROA LIBRARY Book Review

TITLE: Gone Girl
AUTHOR: Gillian Flynn

Amy and Nick Dunne are the perfect couple, or so it seems. After they both lose their jobs and Amy's trust fund is severely depleted they leave the bustling lifestyle of New York, returning to Nick's small hometown. With Nick preoccupied with his new business Amy struggles to adjust to life in the depressed, run down town, spending many hours alone. On the day of their 5th wedding anniversary, Nick's whole world is turned topsy-turvy when Amy disappears without a trace.

Written from both Amy and Nick's perspective Gone Girl is a gripping psychological thriller with numerous twists and turns. Everything is believable but just as you think you know the characters Gillian Flynn throws another red herring your way, keeping you guessing right until the last page. Unputdownable!

HOOK, LINE & SINKER
